Preface

John Clare, Politics and Poetry could not have been written without the help of many friends, colleagues and institutions. I would like to acknowledge the generous support of the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada in providing the Postdoctoral Fellowship that enabled me to complete the majority of the research for this book, and the School of English at the University of St Andrews for their kindness in allowing me to tenure the Fellowship at their institution. I also want to acknowledge the support of a Professional Staff Congress of the City University of New York in awarding a Research Grant that allowed me to complete my research, and Hunter College for the Eugene Lang Junior Faculty Development Award that assisted in the production of the book.

Friends and colleagues have been generous in discussing this book throughout its planning and composition. In particular I would like to thank Tim Fulford, Bob Heyes, Bridget Keegan, Simon Kövesi, James McKusick, Eric Robinson and Nicholas Roe, all of whom read part of the manuscript and provided me with feedback at some stage in the process. I want to especially acknowledge the encouragement of John Goodridge whose thoughtful responses to parts of the work were particularly helpful. I also want to thank Jack Kenigsberg for his help in preparing the manuscript.

The following institutions provided free access to their manuscripts and other research materials: the British Library Manuscript Collection and Rare Book Room, the Colindale Newspaper Archive, the Peterborough Museum, the Northampton Library, the Pforzheimer Collection of the New York Public Library, the University of St Andrews Library Special Collections, the Sheffield City Library, the University of Sheffield Special Collections, and the Spalding Gentleman's Society. I am grateful to the librarians and staff of these institutions who made research a pleasure.
