

POLITICAL LEADERSHIP IN
FOREIGN POLICY

This page intentionally left blank

POLITICAL LEADERSHIP IN
FOREIGN POLICY

MANIPULATING SUPPORT
ACROSS BORDERS

Andrea K. Grove

POLITICAL LEADERSHIP IN FOREIGN POLICY

© Andrea K. Grove, 2007.

Softcover reprint of the hardcover 1st edition 2007 978-1-4039-6949-1

All rights reserved. No part of this book may be used or reproduced in any manner whatsoever without written permission except in the case of brief quotations embodied in critical articles or reviews.

First published in 2007 by

PALGRAVE MACMILLAN™

175 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10010 and

Houndmills, Basingstoke, Hampshire, England RG21 6XS

Companies and representatives throughout the world.

PALGRAVE MACMILLAN is the global academic imprint of the Palgrave Macmillan division of St. Martin's Press, LLC and of Palgrave Macmillan Ltd. Macmillan® is a registered trademark in the United States, United Kingdom and other countries. Palgrave is a registered trademark in the European Union and other countries.

ISBN 978-1-349-53131-8

ISBN 978-0-230-60433-9 (eBook)

DOI 10.1057/9780230604339

Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data is available from the Library of Congress.

A catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library.

Design by Newgen Imaging Systems (P) Ltd., Chennai, India.

First edition: May 2007

10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1

CONTENTS

List of Tables	vii
Acknowledgments	ix
1 Leadership in Foreign Policy	1
2 Forcing Peace: John Hume’s “Long Struggle” in Northern Ireland, 1982–1998	13
3 From the Outside In: George H.W. Bush and the Persian Gulf War, August 1990–January 1991	41
4 Resisting Change: Mugabe against the People’s Struggle in Zimbabwe, 1998–2005	69
5 The South African “Miracle”: Mandela’s Struggle in a Globalized Transition, 1985–1994	101
6 Pakistan’s Musharraf: The War on Terror and Fueling the Jihad, 2001–2005	137
7 Concluding Observations	177
Notes	185
Bibliography	209
Index	221

This page intentionally left blank

LIST OF TABLES

1.1	Four leadership strategies	8
1.2	Case studies	9
2.1	Summary of John Hume's use of strategy	20
3.1	Bush's framing threat strategy	60
3.2	Summary of George Bush's use of strategy	65
4.1	Summary of Robert Mugabe's use of strategy	98
5.1	Summary of Nelson Mandela's use of strategy	134
6.1	Summary of Pervez Musharraf's use of strategy	172

This page intentionally left blank

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

I have been so fortunate to have much help, support, and inspiration while working on this project. First, David Pervin, my initial editor at Palgrave Macmillan deserves my gratitude because he took an initial proposal targeted at a different audience and helped me to structure a project more suited to my passion—that of trying to make research in the field of international relations more accessible to undergraduate students. His expertise and stylistic approach were invaluable.

In addition, I would like to thank my students at Westminster College who have challenged me with their curiosity and their optimism that learning about the world around them is their first step in changing that world. You know who you are. Thank you for sharing that hope with me. Westminster College provided research funds that supplemented travel to South Africa, Northern Ireland, and additional research locations. For this I am grateful for the sustained support of Professor Sandra Webster in securing funding. Also, thank you to all the great colleagues I leave behind as I move on to new challenges in California.

Likewise, a number of colleagues have been so generous with their time and moral support. Brian Ripley at Mercyhurst College has become one of my most valued friends and mentors. His many insights on various drafts of this work are deeply appreciated. I am constantly amazed at his ability to be an excellent educator and colleague, while still maintaining an exemplary research agenda. Kent Kille at the College of Wooster, a longtime friend, has also provided both steady moral support and indispensable expertise. Finally, Chris Scholl has suffered the most from my years of work on the project (especially by reading countless drafts) and has helped me maintain my sanity in the struggle to balance research and nearly overwhelming teaching responsibilities. He has helped me remember that I should do what makes me happy, and inspired me to pull it all together in a book about my research for my students, who give it all meaning. His example on the campus leaves a legacy that would inspire anyone to want to be a better educator.