

NEW WOMEN DRAMATISTS IN AMERICA,
1890-1920

This page intentionally left blank

NEW WOMEN DRAMATISTS IN AMERICA,
1890–1920

Sherry D. Engle

palgrave
macmillan

NEW WOMEN DRAMATISTS IN AMERICA, 1890–1920

Copyright © Sherry D. Engle, 2007

Softcover reprint of the hardcover 1st edition 2007 978-1-4039-7320-7

All rights reserved. No part of this book may be used or reproduced in any manner whatsoever without written permission except in the case of brief quotations embodied in critical articles or reviews.

First published in 2007 by
PALGRAVE MACMILLAN™
175 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10010 and Houndmills, Basingstoke, Hampshire, England RG21 6XS.
Companies and representatives throughout the world.

PALGRAVE MACMILLAN is the global academic imprint of the Palgrave Macmillan division of St. Martin's Press, LLC and of Palgrave Macmillan Ltd. Macmillan® is a registered trademark in the United States, United Kingdom and other countries. Palgrave is a registered trademark in the European Union and other countries.

ISBN 978-1-349-53443-2

ISBN 978-0-230-60936-5 (eBook)

DOI 10.1057/9780230609365

Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data

New women dramatists in America, 1890–1920 / by Sherry D. Engle.
p. cm.

A study of the lives and accomplishments of five women dramatists of the Progressive Era: Martha Morton, Madeleine Lucette Ryley, Evelyn Greenleaf Sutherland, Beulah Marie Dix, and Rida Johnson Young.

Includes bibliographical references and index.

1. Women dramatists, American—Biography. 2. American drama—Women authors—History and criticism. 3. Women and literature—United States—History—19th century. 4. Women and literature—United States—History—20th century. I. Title.

PS338.W6E65 2008

812'.5099287—dc22

2007016219

A catalogue record of the book is available from the British Library.

Design by Scribe Inc.

First edition: December 2007

10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1

Cover drawing reprinted from Green Book Album, September 1910.
Permission to cite from letters in Rida Johnson Young file, Shubert Archives,
New York, NY

Dedicated to the memory of the lives and work of Martha Morton,
Madeleine Lucette Ryley,
Evelyn Greenleaf Sutherland,
Beulah Marie Dix,
and Rida Johnson Young

This page intentionally left blank

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	ix
Introduction Progressive Era Women Dramatists	1
1 Dean of the Women Playwrights: Martha Morton (1865–1925)	13
Martha Morton’s Address to the American Dramatists’ Club	48
Works of Martha Morton	50
2 Transatlantic Success: Madeleine Lucette Ryley (1858–1934)	55
An Interview with “Mrs. Madeleine Lucette Ryley” in The Vote	93
Works of Madeleine Lucette Ryley	95
3 Collaborators and Friends: Evelyn Greenleaf Sutherland (1855–1908) and Beulah Marie Dix (1876–1970)	99
Works of Evelyn Greenleaf Sutherland	134
Works of Beulah Marie Dix	138
4 Dramatist, Songwriter, and Lyricist: Rida Johnson Young (1875–1926)	149
Works of Rida Johnson Young	192
Notes	199
Appendix New York Plays and Musicals by Women, April 1885–June 1925	235
Index	271

This page intentionally left blank

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

THIS PROJECT WOULD NOT HAVE BEEN POSSIBLE without the generous help and support of many colleagues, friends, and institutions. I am very grateful to Dr. Oscar Brockett at the University of Texas at Austin, who gave me initial criticism as my dissertation advisor. Later, I received funding for research and travel in the form of a PSC-CUNY Grant from the City University of New York and a Faculty Research grant from the Borough of Manhattan Community College. In addition, through the CUNY Faculty Fellowship Publication Program, I received feedback and advice from group members on early stages of the book.

David and Helen Day Meyer not only brought to my attention Madeleine Lucette Ryley's play collection at the University of Manchester, but copied several of her plays and sent them to me in Austin. When I visited Ryley's archive at the John Rylands Library, David and Helen graciously put me up, providing meals and stimulating discussion—many heartfelt thanks for your generous hospitality! I owe a huge debt of gratitude, as well, to my friend and colleague, Susan Croft, whose encyclopedic memory has assisted me over the years; not only did Susan provide valuable assistance with archives, particularly the British Theatre Museum, she traversed the extra mile by arranging flat-setting situations for my stays in London.

Librarians and experts have helped to facilitate my work and have provided valuable information over the years. With its vast resources and helpful librarians, the New York Public Library is indeed a blessing for any scholar. I am grateful for the assistance of Linda Long and Lesli Larson at the University of Oregon McKnight Library, Peggy Haile McPhillips at the Norfolk Public Library, and Marc Warren at the Maryland Historical Society. I appreciate the friendly helpfulness of Mary Anne Chach, Sylvia Wang, and Mark Swartz each time I visit the Shubert Archives here in New York. And to the librarians at BMCC who helped with loan requests for hard-to-find plays, thanks so much. Thanks as well must go to librarians at the Harvard Theatre archives, British Library, John Rylands Library, Boston Public Library

Special Collections, the Harry Ransom Center and the University of Texas libraries.

Warm gratitude goes to friends and colleagues who have encouraged this project. Thanks to my department chair, Susana Powell, for providing collegial support in so many ways over the past six years. Noelia Hernando-Real helped with typing the appendix and reading chapters, as did Barbara Ozieblo; Maria Beach generously shared information from her dissertation research on Dix and others; and David Gunderson not only drove me to Connecticut to find Young's will at the Stamford Courthouse and trek with me through an up-state cemetery to locate Martha Morton's grave, he provided insightful suggestions on the Introduction. Thanks, too, must go to Liz Stroppel, Marlene Sider, Elinore Bucholtz, and Nancy Rogers for providing friendship and support. My children, Drew and Brooke, and their families always keep me motivated and grounded. Mom, thanks for your encouragement through the years. Lastly, much gratitude goes to my husband, Mohamed, for providing patient support and hugs, even when my thoughts have been tuned to a previous century, another era.