

Making Sense of Constitutional Monarchism in Post-Napoleonic France and Germany

Also by Markus J. Prutsch

DIE CHARTE CONSTITUTIONNELLE LUDWIGS XVIII. IN DER KRISE VON 1830

FUNDAMENTALISMUS

Das 'Projekt der Moderne' und die Politisierung des Religiösen

INTER-TRANS-SUPRA?

Legal Relations and Power Structures in History (edited with Eliana Augusti and Norman Domeier)

LA NUOVA STORIA COSTITUZIONALE (editor)

Making Sense of Constitutional Monarchism in Post-Napoleonic France and Germany

Markus J. Prutsch

Researcher, European Parliament

palgrave
macmillan

© Markus J. Prutsch 2013

Softcover reprint of the hardcover 1st edition 2013 ISBN 978-0-230-31649-2

All rights reserved. No reproduction, copy or transmission of this publication may be made without written permission.

No portion of this publication may be reproduced, copied or transmitted save with written permission or in accordance with the provisions of the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988, or under the terms of any licence permitting limited copying issued by the Copyright Licensing Agency, Saffron House, 6–10 Kirby Street, London EC1N 8TS.

Any person who does any unauthorized act in relation to this publication may be liable to criminal prosecution and civil claims for damages.

The author has asserted his right to be identified as the author of this work in accordance with the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988.

First published 2013 by
PALGRAVE MACMILLAN

Palgrave Macmillan in the UK is an imprint of Macmillan Publishers Limited, registered in England, company number 785998, of Houndmills, Basingstoke, Hampshire RG21 6XS.

Palgrave Macmillan in the US is a division of St Martin's Press LLC, 175 Fifth Avenue, New York, NY 10010.

Palgrave Macmillan is the global academic imprint of the above companies and has companies and representatives throughout the world.

Palgrave® and Macmillan® are registered trademarks in the United States, the United Kingdom, Europe and other countries.

ISBN 978-1-349-33977-8 ISBN 978-1-137-29165-3 (eBook)

DOI 10.1057/9781137291653

This book is printed on paper suitable for recycling and made from fully managed and sustained forest sources. Logging, pulping and manufacturing processes are expected to conform to the environmental regulations of the country of origin.

A catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library.

A catalog record for this book is available from the Library of Congress.

10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1
22 21 20 19 18 17 16 15 14 13

Contents

Diagram	vii
Acknowledgements	viii
1 Introduction	1
1.1 Subject and focus of research	1
1.2 Analytical approach	7
1.3 Outline of chapters	8
2 The Charte and Constitutional Monarchism	10
2.1 The prelude to the Charte	10
2.1.1 End of the Napoleonic empire and restoration of the Bourbons	10
2.1.2 The Senatorial Constitution of 6 April 1814	15
2.2 The genesis of the Charte constitutionnelle	18
2.2.1 The return of the King and the Declaration of Saint-Ouen	18
2.2.2 The Constitutional Commission and the Enactment of the Charte	22
2.3 The provisions of the Charte constitutionnelle	25
2.4 Purloined revolution and political innovation	30
2.5 Conclusions	35
3 Constitutional Discourse and Political Reality in Post-Napoleonic Germany	39
3.1 Beginnings of constitutional reception	39
3.2 Constitutional debate and ‘models’ around 1815	44
3.2.1 The nature of constitutional discourse	44
3.2.2 Perception of revolutionary constitutionalism	48
3.2.3 Perception of the English Constitution	53
3.2.4 Perception of constitutional monarchism	56
3.2.5 Discourse on Landständische Verfassung	61
3.3 Political reality and the ruling class	65
3.4 Conclusions	69
4 Transfer and Reception: Bavaria and Baden as Case Studies	74
4.1 Framework for constitutionalisation	74
4.1.1 Bavaria	74
4.1.2 Baden	79
4.1.3 Conclusions	83

4.2	Genesis of the Constitutions	84
4.2.1	Bavaria	84
4.2.2	Baden	93
4.2.3	Conclusions	101
4.3	Text of the Constitutions	103
4.3.1	Bavaria	103
4.3.2	Baden	108
4.3.3	Conclusions	112
4.4	Interim results	114
5	Constitutional Practice: A Comparison	121
5.1	Bavaria	121
5.2	Baden	141
5.3	France	152
5.4	Conclusions	171
6	Constitutional Monarchism: Reflections in Political Thought	178
6.1	French perspectives	179
6.2	German perspectives	185
6.3	British perspectives	199
6.4	Conclusions	201
7	Results	205
	Notes	222
	Bibliography	293
	Sources	293
	Unprinted Sources	293
	Printed Sources	294
	Literature	306
	Index	327

Diagram

2.1 The political system of the Charte constitutionnelle (1814)

36

Acknowledgements

According to Cicero, gratitude is not only the greatest of virtues but also the parent of all others. On this note, I would like to take this as an opportunity to say a collective ‘thank you’ to all those who have accompanied and very much enriched my work over the last few years, and without whom its completion would not have been possible.

I would again like to underline how very grateful I am to all those who actively supported me in the putting together of my Ph.D. thesis, which I submitted to the European University Institute, Florence in autumn 2009, and on the findings of which the present monograph is largely based. My special thanks go to Prof. Heinz-Gerhardt Haupt, my supervisor and dedicated mentor during my time in Florence and beyond, and to the staff of the archives and libraries with whom I had the pleasure of working.

For his most generous support in the drafting of this book I am greatly indebted to Prof. Volker Sellin, who has accompanied my research since my university studies at Heidelberg with his valuable advice and kind understanding, and whose exemplary sharp intellectual character together with his modest and unpretentious nature I hold in high esteem. I would like to express my sincere gratitude both to him and all my colleagues and friends with whom I have discussed this book project at different stages and whose comments have been taken on board in this manuscript. These include my fellow researchers in the EReRe project at the University of Helsinki, with whom I share the memory of having worked in a truly collegial working environment between 2009 and 2012, as well as Doris Spickenreuther, Urban Kirchler and Andrea Maier, who have supported me in revising the manuscript.

Above all, my thanks go to Deborah Fölsche-Forrow, who has not only been a true friend for many years but who has also contributed to the actual form of my work more than anyone else: cordial thanks for all the countless hours spent on improving the manuscript and helping me understand the secrets of the English language, not least when facing the difficulties of translation!

It is to her that I would like to dedicate my humble work, and to my entire family, who have been of immeasurable inspiration and an indispensable mainstay for my studies: you have been a constant source of strength and encouragement throughout the years, and as simple as my Dankeschön may sound, it is all the more heartfelt.

Brussels, May 2012